

A b s t r a c t :

Described is the use of an agent prepared from plant seedlings enriched with electrolytes for the production of a pharmaceutical preparation aimed at the proliferation of T-lymphocytes, the reduction of cholesterol and the reduction of LDL.

In general, rejuvenation of the immune system was shown to result from the use according to the invention. In particular, an improved vigilance and increased reactivity of the immune system were noted.